Bins to Construct Ondance.—Yesterday afterneon the Bureau of Ordnance, War Department, opened the bids for the construction of lifty guns for the Army of eight, ten and twelve-inch calibres. Congress appropriated $3,775,000 to pay for this work, and it was expected there would be several bids, but only two firms appear to want the job—the Midvale Steel Company and the South Boston Iron Works. The former company bid $22,028 each for twenty-five 8-inch guns, $51,280 each for the twenty-five 12-inch guns. The total amount of their bid was $5,350,500. They agreed to deliver one type gun of each calibre at the end of three years after signing the contract and the remaining guns within eight years after the acceptance of the test guns.

The South Boston Iron Works bid for one type 8-inch gun, $20,300, to be delivered January 1, 1893; for 250 rounds of ammunition for this gun, $23,424,50; for the twenty-four remaining 8-inch guns, with ten rounds of ammunition for each at the rate of six per year and after the test of the type guns; for one type gun of 10-inch caliber, $46,500; for 300 rounds of ammunition, $43,550, this gun to be delivered June 1, 1818; for forty-nine 10-inch

A LITTLE SKIRMISH.

INDIANS SURROUND A WAGON TRAIN AND ITS ESCORT.

Kept at Bay for Three Hours and Many Shots Fired-A Few Indians Killed-The Outlook at Pine Ridge-The Re-Mack Comment.

CAMP NEAR WOUNDED KNEE CHEEK, Jan L-Another engagement took place at this point yesterday morning. As a number of wagons with supplies were known to be coming on the road from Rapid City to this point it was thought best to send out a detachment to protect them. So thirty men were picked out and immediately started down the road.

They had not gone over ten miles when they discovered the wagons, thirteen in number, drawn up in the form of a square and being attacked by a band of about fifty Indians. The detachments put their horses to a full gallop, the Indians, seeing which, withdrew to an adjoining hill. The detachment now joined the teamsters, who numbered only 19. Sacks of grain, bundles and boxes were thrown up in front of the besieged as breast-works. The Indians, noticing this, immediately returned and commenced the attack, circling around the wagons, but keeping at a distance of 800 yards. As a result the shots from their Winchesters were not very effective, often falling short of the marks.

The carbines of the soldiers were used with much more effect, a number of Indians being seen to fall from their horses. Meantime their number was augmented until they numbered some 100 warriors in attack besides some they had posted off on the adjoining hills. One soldier, during the commencement of the fight, while arranging the breest works was shot in the shoulder, but not seriously wounded. A soldier was detailed to return to camp and report that the detachment was besieged by the Indians, and that they were attacking the wagon train. He selected a fast horse and made a break at an opportune monitent, the attention of the Indians being attracked to movements on the other side. As soon as the object of the ruse was seen about twenty Indians gave chase to Private Collins and fired shot after shot at him, but as he had a fast horse he soon distanced them.

They then returned with the others to the attack. There more Indians were seen to fall from their horses and were picked up and carried away by their companions. Four cavalry horses were shot and killed, as were a large number of Indian ponies. While the large body of Indians was being engaged by the majority of the soldiers and the soldiers about three hours.

A little before 2 o'clook p. m. a commotion was seen among the Indians, and they gradually retreated when it was seen that troops came in from the hostile camp yesterday afternoon. They asked that the Indians now at the agency be sent out to help the Indians who fled from the agency on the

The suspension of Colonel Forsythe came like a flash and created amazement in some minds. Officials' mouths are closed to all inquiries on the subject. It is believed that the unfortunate disposition of the troops, making it possible for them to do cross-firing, with the result of killing one another, constitutes a part, and is possibly the greater part of the foundation for Colonel Forsythe's suspension.

The general situation here is increasing in seriousness. Short Bull, the leading hostile chief, who has distinguished himself all along during the trouble by never for a moment considering any of the overtures looking to an amicable settlement, but who has steadily stuck to his lair in the Bad Lands, and has now assumed command of the great body of hostiles. Sunday night told the Government spies that he would take this agency if it cost every warrior he had.

Half-breeds here have been informed by friends and relatives, whom some of them have smong the hostiles, that they had better immediately move their families a long distance from the agency as a great raid and massacre was certain. The half-breeds are showing the agency people what they think of this information by petting their families out of there with a getting their families out of there with rush.

The Government hersler, John Dwyer, and Issue Clerk Pugh have both discovered, through their Indian friends of years standing, that a raid and massacrus has been fully decided upon and maturely planned. General Miles is thoroughly conversant with all these facts himself, and says that the situation is exceedingly critical. There are less than 600 soldiers here now all told.

he simply carried out the orders from the White House.

No one appears to know at whose instance the gallant soldier was suspended, pending an investigation of the battle at Wounded Knee, where several squaws and children were killed.

"I am satisfied," said an attache of the War Department this morning, "that the order for the suspension of Colonel Forsythe did not come from either Secretary Proctor or General Schoffield, but I have every reason to believe that after the facts were laid before the President hehimself requested or ordered the removal. Col. Forsythe has not been in sympathy with the Administration, and this is no doubt the cause of his removal. This is not the first instance in which the President has shown the cloven foot in matters of this character. I myself have been in battles similar to the one in which Colonel Forsythe was last engaged, and I do not see how he could have avoided doing what he did. There are no braver soldiers than those in the Seventh, and Colonel Forsythe knows how to commund his men."

General Vincent refers all newspaper men to General Schoffeld, and the latter gentleman appears reticent in speaking what he thinks. He says at a suggestion

At the Cabinet meeting to-day the Indian matter was discussed at length, but what course was decided upon is not

Major-General Schofield has received a telegram from General Miles stating that he has appointed a board of officers, consisting of Colonel Carr, Major Kent and Captain Baldwin, to investigate the battle of Wounded Knee, for the conduct of which Colonel Forsythe of the Seventh Cavalry was relieved of command.

THE SCOTCH RAILROAD MEN BATTLE THE POLICE.

Thoroughly Desperate They Attack the Building Which Shelters the Non-Union Workers, and Though Repulsed Time and Again Return to the Charge-Several Injured.

Grassow, Jan. 6.-The evictions of the railroad strikers from the quarters occupied by them as employes of the compa-nies promises to be the cause of further and serious trouble.

Notwithstanding the fact that a largely ncreased police and military force this morning confronted the riotous element at Coulbridge, a great iron centre about oine miles from this place, rioting was resumed by the now desperate men. The troubles of the day were begun by the mob making a fierce onslaught upon the dormitory in which are sheltered the non-union men. The assault opened with a sharp fusilade with stones, which was followed by a forward rush of the mob, which made frantic efforts to force an entrance to the building.

Sharp hand-to-hand tighting then took blace between the values and the prices.

Sharp hand-to-hand lighting then took place between the police and the rioters, the officers vigorously plying their batons, while their assailants hereely pelted them with stones and beat them with cudgels and their naked lists.

At times the police would, after extraordinary efforts, succeed in forcing the mob to move sullenly backward, only, however, to again pull itself together and dash forward, cursing and lighting, upon the plucky officers. At the moment of cabling this dispatch several of the policemen and a number of rioters have been injured.

Washington tady, Jursey City, Jun. 6.—In the New Jersey Court of Chancery, yesterday, Vice-Chancellor Pitney rendered a decree setting aside a transfer of Orange (N. J.) real eside a transfer of Orange (N. J.) real estate upon the grounds of frand. The property consists of twenty-six lots, and was owned by Miss Mary A. Peet of Washington, B. C., who inherites the plot from her father. Miss Peet had never seen the property, and supposed each of the lots to be 25x100 feet. Charles A. DeArmand, who was visiting in Washington with his wife, offered to find a purchaser for the property, and it was finally transferred to him for $1,040. Miss Peet subsequently learned that each of the lots—was 50x100 feet and that DeArmand was aware of the feet. A number of the lots had been sold again for $100 each, when Miss Peet brought suit to have the transfer set aside.

Miss Peet brought suit to have the transfer set aside.

De Armand when on the witness stand asserted that he was a colonel in the American Army, having served under General Fremont as commandant of the Fifth Missouri Rifler; a major in the Russian army, and a count having large possessions in the Baltic provinces. Miss Peet's counsel attacked these assertions, and it was found that the real commander of the Fifth Missouri Rifler was Alfred de Armand, a physician living at Hot Springs, Ark. Other of the alleged count's statements were contradictory, and the Vice Chancellor pronounced him to be guilty of fraud. Miss Peet, upon repayment of the $1,040 purchase money, will get her property back again.
